

Photo by Senjuki Kundu Unsplash

I hope the poem has the desired effect on you my reader.

Inspiration

Inspiration is infectious.
Catch it if you can.
But where to find this precious bug,
which rarely threatens man?

From teachers stood at blackboards?
Or passionate politicians?
Or fervent eco-voices
with deeply held convictions?

A simple glimpse of nature can stir our inner souls and make us sight our targets on higher aims and goals.

We all know how to recognise the signs of this disease.
The patient's full of life and joy.
Don't cure me, doctor ... please!

© Richard Garman